Lonzell Hill

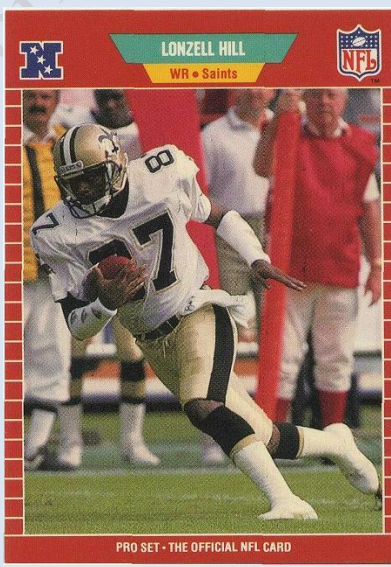

Lonzell was a wide receiver and punt returner for the New Orleans Saints of the NFL for 4 seasons from 1987 to 1990. In those 4 seasons, Lonzell caught 136 passes for 1,696 yards. He caught 66 passes for 703 yards in 1988 alone. His 7 receiving touchdowns that season ranked him 9th in the NFL. In 1988, Lonzell also average over 10 yards per return while returning 10 punts.

Lonzell then moved north to the CFL and played with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats for three seasons from 1992 to 1994. As a note, younger brother Kahlil also played in Hamilton in 2005 and 2006 plus in Saskatchewan in 2007, while baby brother Hakim played for the Toronto Argonauts.

And of course, Lonzell's father was Buffalo Bill great wide receiver JD Hill who was an All Pro in 1972.

Lonzell II hopes to continue the Hill family tradition. Lonzell's son is currently a strong safety on the Washington Huskies football team, the same team for which his father starred years before. He hopes to made father and grandfather proud; we're sure he already has.
